

As a taxpayer, our government has taken and taken and taken all in the name of going "the best" for the citizens of the USA....I do not think that is the case in most instances. As a senior citizen, I loose benefits daily and probably hourly that I do not know about until after the fact. My voice is that the FCC should keep their fingers out of the broadcast industry and let their be competition, which will keep prices down for all of us ordinary citizens in the long run. It's hard enough for us to keep our heads above water now financially, but perhaps my little voice will help to insure that my grandchildren will not be burdoned exessively in the future if my voice contributes to keeping the media competitive.
